A Note From... Our President

HAPPY 2022!

I hope each of you have been able to enjoy family and friends during the Christmas and New Year's celebrations. The second half of our new year has begun and I am looking forward to a successful Arts and Craft show in February!

Our "Facets of Splendor" color this month is purple. Royalty, luxury, spirituality and imagination are symbols of purple. Ladies, you should be adorned in purple, in my book, you are royalty. You go above and beyond! Last month, when asked to invest and make a difference in the lives of others you gave from your hearts as usual. You contributed over $800 to the tornado victims in Kentucky and raised almost $800 through a silent auction to help one of our own. You made the Angel Tree a success by purchasing gifts so that needy children would have a special Christmas.

Each of us make our WCN kaleidoscope beautiful, fitting together, working together and making the lives of those in our community better!

May you have a blessed 2022!

Gerri Cooper

2021-2022 WCN President

Notes... About January's Speaker

Amy Payne, Certified Professional Organizer®, launched Lasting Order in 2011 with the goal of helping people live their one and only lives with purpose and intention. Her organizing firm helps people clear the clutter at home and at work. Amy's favorite part of organizing is watching the client's reaction when they go from cluttered & overwhelmed to finally experiencing freedom and peace!

Battle of the Books: a reading competition for 4th and 5th graders

If you are interested in reading and writing questions for Indiana Battle of the Books, the book list and sample questions can be found on their website <http://www.indianabattleofthebooks.org>. Questions should be turned in at the February meeting to Lola Perrett. Another way to help with this reading competition is at the actual event on April 7th and 8th. Sign-up sheets will be available at the January and February meetings and there will be a virtual training for those volunteers on March 10th.
